TREFACE.

"It is pleasant to gather, one's children together at intervals, to compare their ages, growth, and attainments. This little group of brain children is thus gathered—and it is hoped the charm of the circle will not be broken by the rough growwings of some unsympathizing critic. That there are faults, is frankly confessed—that each possesses some merit is confidently believed. Will the great world grade the small shelter my children and the imaginative claim? We shall see."

NEW MUSIC—"WE'LL ALL MEET AGAIN
IN THE MORNING."—HORACE WATERS, Pablisher, No. 23 Broadway, has just issued the above beautiful Ballad; words by Henry Clay Prenas; music by Thomas Baker; price 25 cents. "We'll all meet again in the morning." It was a beautiful exclamation of a dying child as the red rays of the sunset streamed on him through the window: "Good bye, Papa, good bye; Mamma has come for me to-night. Don't cry, Papa; we'll all meet again in the morning." And the heart of that father grew lighter under its burder, for something ascured him that his little angel had gone back to the boson of Him who said: "Suffer little children to come unto me, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Of the Rev. DIS. KIRK, BAIRD, SONNERS, ORVILLE DEWRY, COX and KING, and of the Rev. Messers MILBURN, BEECHER, CULLER, and BARNES.

It has been the design of the Author, in this book, to present, through living examples, the Characteristics of the American Pulpit, and some of the Distinctive Features of American Churches. This has determined the selection. Representative Men. who are mostly prominent men, have been chosen, representing not only Denominations, but Religious Movements and Practical desa, Principles and Facts. There has also been a purpose in these Biographies—more than to gratify curiosity or exait individuals—born out of a hope to promore Christian Union by grouping diverse Christian views,

Among the Movement's portrayed, may be mentioned the Pre-Church Presbyterian System in New-York, of 1831-34, with appropriate mention of JOEL PARKER, CHARLES G. FixNY, and others; the remarkable Revival's from 1390 to the present time, with brief sketches of Bishop Assury, Father HAXLEY GEORGE PECK, and others, and interesting anecdother into Orthodox and Unitarian, contrasted with the significant movement in the Episcopal Church toward a relaxin and its popular style.
